Our story

Lying at the cross-roads of the Mediterranean, the University of Malta has been, over its long history, the hub for national academic pursuits and international scholarly exchange on the island.

The origins of the University can be traced back to the founding of the Collegium Melitense which was set up through direct papal intervention on 12 November 1592. This college was run by the Jesuits on the lines of other colleges established elsewhere which were known as 'Collegia Externorum' and catered for non-Jesuit students. A papal bull by Pope Pius IV, dated 29 August 1561, which was later confirmed by another bull by Pope Gregory XIII on 9 May 1578, empowered the Jesuits to confer the degrees of Magister Philosophiae and Doctor Divinitatis. However, the foundation deed specified that in addition to philosophy and theology, other subjects such as grammar and the humanities should also be taught.

Following the abatement of the plague of 1675, Grandmaster Nicolò Cotoner appointed Fra Dr Giuseppe Zammit as 'lettore' in Anatomy and Surgery at the Sacra Infermeria on 19 October 1676. This attempt to formalise medical teaching at the order's hospital is considered by many as constituting the beginning of our medical school. Zammit went on to establish the first medical library on the island as well as a medicinal herb garden in one of the ditches of Fort Saint Elmo.

After the expulsion of the Jesuit Order from Malta in 1768, Grandmaster Pinto appropriated all the revenue accrued from its property on the island with the aim of establishing a 'Pubblica Università di Studi Generali'. The decree establishing the University was signed by Pinto on 22 November 1769, having been authorised to do so by the Papal Brief, 'Sedula Romani Pontifici', received on 20 October 1769. On 25 May 1771, a Collegio Medico was set up as one of the faculties of the University. At the time of the founding of the University, the 'Principe dell'Accademia dei Medici' was the surgeon Michelangelo Grima who also held the combined Chair of Anatomy and Surgery at the Medical School, whilst the Professor of Medicine was Giorgio Locano.

Following the Second World War, the library and support structures were strengthened. The Evans Laboratories were opened in 1959 to house the Faculty of Science near the old hospital of the Knights in Valletta and a new Medical School building near St Luke's Hospital in Guardamangia was opened in 1968. At the same time, the new campus in Msida was inaugurated. The Faculty of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering (now, the Faculty of Engineering) and the Faculty of Education became part of the University when the former Polytechnic (also known as the Malta College of Arts, Science and Technology) was incorporated within it.

The University of Malta is the leading higher education institution in Malta and its structures are in line with the Bologna Process and the European Higher Education area. Today UM is composed of fourteen faculties, a number of interdisciplinary institutes and centres, three schools and the Junior College. In addition to the main campus, situated in Msida, there are three other campuses: Valletta, Marsaxlokk and Gozo.

What we stand for

The mission of the University of Malta is to serve the aspirations of the people of these islands through locally and globally significant research and the provision of quality higher education in the arts, sciences and the humanities as required for Malta's economic, social and cultural development, via the scholarship of discovery, teaching and service to the community. These functions shall be delivered in a sustainable manner that is responsive to this country's present and emergent needs.

University of Malta – Mission statement

The University seeks to carry out academic research and provide a vibrant higher education environment for the arts, sciences and the humanities as required for Malta's economic, social and cultural development. The courses at UM are designed to produce highly-qualified professionals in multiple disciplines. The UM alumni community is growing exponentially: well over 3,500 students graduate in various disciplines annually. There are some 11,500 students, including around 1,000 international students from 92 different countries and 450 visiting overseas students, following full-time or part-time degree and diploma courses. The degree courses at UM are designed to produce highly-qualified professionals, with experience of research, who will come to occupy key roles in industry, commerce and public life in general.

The (main) University Library building, situated at the Msida Campus, occupies a total floor area of between 5,000 and 6,000 square metres and there are also more branches of the library in other areas on campus. The University Library currently subscribes to over 60,000 e-journals, 196 print journal titles and 16,554 e-books.

We want to stay true to our heritage;
that's what our brand is about.

Brand elements

The evolution of our new brand

The idea of having a visual identity to represent the University of Malta (UM) dates back to 1923, when the then-rector, Professor Sir Themistocles Zammit, proposed the use of a crest, together with the motto 'Ut Fructificemus Deo' (We should bring forth fruit unto God). From this initial depiction evolved the University's former digital ornate crest and its former logo. Our new visual identity is born from the same process, with the former crest being revised and reworked into a newly stylised ceremonial ornate crest, followed by the University logomark.

Throughout the intensive process, various stakeholders of the University of Malta, including students, academic and administrative staff and alumni, were consulted. All elements were carefully examined and tested in order to be in line with our new vision: that of an identity which retains the features and history of the largest educational entity in Malta,but represents them with a contemporary design flair.

This new brand gives us the opportunity to reinvent ourselves, showing how we can be innovative in the competitive higher education market. Setting us apart from other institutions both on the island as well as abroad, the recreated visual identity also provides the tools to create an attractive yet practical graphic system that can serve our purposes in our everyday operations, ensuring consistency throughout all our marketing material.

A note on logo versions

The only versions of the UM logo that are to be used are those illustrated on this page. No other versions in varying colour/s are permitted. The red logo takes precedence over the black and the reversed-out/white versions, therefore it should be the first preference for all UM marketing applications. In cases where legibility, clarity or design issues arise when using the red logo, the white and black versions of the UM logo can be used.

Sizes and spacing

Logo sizes:

PRINT

Minimum size of logo for print application is 15mm, based on the height of the crest.

DIGITAL

Minimum size of logo for digital application is 10mm, based on the height of the crest.

Logo spacing:

At minimum size, the mandatory clear space around the logo is 5mm. This increases in proportion to the size of the logo, as the example on the right shows. This also applies for digital and online use.

For generic application (not large or very small-format items), the generic guideline of 10mm clear space can also be applied.

Sub-brands

The University of Malta is made up of several entities which sometimes need to be represented in advertising campaigns led by the University or an advertising agency.

Faculties/institutes/centres/schools/offices of the University of Malta are not allowed any graphical logomark other than the sub-brand logo allocated to them by the University.

The same rules and guidelines that govern the use of the UM logo apply to sub-brands. All sub-brand logos exist in red, black and reversed-out versions and can be requested for use via info@um.edu.mt.

All sub-brand logos are in English (except for the brand name 'L-Università ta' Malta').

A note on sub-brand logos

Centres, institutes, resource centres, G.F Abela Junior College and any other entity which does not fall under a faculty or a school does not have a third-level sub-brand logo listing its division/department/sub-entity, and neither are its staff allowed to create one.

All sub-brand logos are available in their red, black and reversed-out/white versions. You can request access via info@um.edu.mt.

For minimum size for print and digital application and for logo spacing please refer to the Size and Spacing Section on the previous page.

Not more than one sub-brand logo can be used at a time. For correct usage, please refer to 'Recognition of multiple sub-brand University F/I/C/S and entities' section on the opposite page.

Faculty/institute/centre/school logos

Sub-brand logos consist of the UM logomark, the UM line wordmark and the name of the entity right beneath it. The name of the entity should not exceed two lines.

In the need of expressing recognition of multiple faculties/institutes/centres/schools and/or departments the format should follow the examples on the left and above. Although this should be avoided as much as possible, in cases where there is no access to Cera PRO or Lato fonts the placement still follows the examples on the left, but uses Calibri font instead as shown below.

IMPORTANT:

Recognition of multiple University F/I/C/S, offices and entities is limited to the use of only the generic UM logo on all third party marketing material and in instances where third party logos are present.

Official logo and sub-brand logos: correct and incorrect use

Logo placement

Whenever possible, the preferred position for the University of Malta corporate and sub-brand logos is top-left, as shown in the examples on the right. The logo cannot be rotated in any manner, with the only exception of flag design (see Flags section, p.75)

The legibility and clarity of all elements making up the logo should never be compromised. The placement of the logo will therefore also affect the background chosen, and viceversa. Refer to p.20 for Logo versions and backgrounds.

Minimum sizes, placement and clear space must be respected in all print and digital/online cases, with no exceptions.

In cases where the above is not possible, the secondary placement preference is bottom-left. Right or centre alignment should be avoided.

Only in the instances below can any other alignment of the UM logo or sub-brand logos be considered:

* if the layout is predetermined or provided by a third party and top-left or bottom-left alignment are not viable for legibility, print or legal reasons

* if the University of Malta is not the main entity in the designed marketing material and therefore our guidelines are secondary to those of the main entity

* when applying the logo on narrow flags (see p.75)

* when the UM logo is the only element in the layout

* if any decision on this account is taken by the Rector.

When third party or logos of UM sub-entities/organisations etc. are integrated in the same marketing material, of which UM is the main entity, top-left alignment takes precedence. Other logos can be placed top-right or at the bottom within the layout, as displayed on the right.

When placing the logo at the bottom section of the layout, lthe logo should be centre-aligned with the top end of the names of faculties or department/s.

When placing the logo beneath an image, the top end of the logo should be aligned with the top end of the names of faculties or department/s.

Logo versions

UM red logo

Usage of the red version of the logo is preferred. The background should be either white/transparent or in a very light colour. The background cannot be busy, patterned or too complex. All the elements of the logo must be clearly visible and legible. Avoid using backgrounds similar in colour to the corporate red of the UM logo. The red version should not be used when printing in black ink only.

UM black logo

The primary use of the black version of the UM logo is for when colour printing is not available.

UM reversed-out/white logos

The reversed-out logo may be used on more complex backgrounds and dark photography. There should be enough contrast for all the elements of the logo to be clearly distinguishable. Do not manually reverse the UM logo into white; use the correct version as provided by the Marketing, Communications and Alumni Office.

All the above guidelines apply to the UM sub-brand logos and to both print and digital/online use.

Red and Black Logo use

Reversed-out Logo use

Incorrect use of logo

Editing the logo in any way – except for proportional resizing which adheres to the minimum size – is prohibited. Do not stretch or squash the logo while resizing.

Rotation of the logo is not allowed, with the only exeception being on narrow flags (see p.75).

The logo consists of the crest and the wordmark and must be used in full in either one of the 3 versions: red (Pantone® or CMYK), black or reversed-out/white in full opacity as per the 'Logo placement' guidelines on p.18. Cropping, adding elements to the logo, using other colours or using the logo as a background is not permitted.

All of the above guidelines apply to sub-brand logos. Do not add a sub-brand name underneath or close to the UM logo. Instead use the appropriate sub-brand logo.

The crest of the official UM logo is only used on its own as a profile picture on the Facebook, Twitter and Instagram pages of UM offices, faculties, institutes, centres, schools and resource centres, Ġ.F. Abela Junior College and any sub-entity which falls directly under UM.

Some usage guidelines regarding the stylised UM design icon

All the colours in the UM colour palette (see p.38) can be used for the stylised UM design icon. The icon can also be used for spot varnish printing.

Colours on the darker end of the palette are used can be applied on white or light-coloured plain backgrounds while colours on the lighter end of the palette can be used on black or dark-coloured plain backgrounds.

The stylised UM design icon can be applied without the two strokes and the wording beneath it.

The UM line wordmark

The UM line wordmark uses Cera PRO© Medium.
The wordmark can be used in (but not limited to) the instances outlined below unless otherwise stated:

- when the UM Logo cannot be reproduced at minimum size or more and the respective minimum clear space cannot be applied on the media such as on pens, pencils, gift ribbons and other small-sized stationery/merchandise.
  This also applies to online applications where the UM logo on its own has to be inserted on a canvas size less than 80x80px

- when the ceremonial crest is used
  (please refer to p.24).

- in presentations, UM app and interior design

The gold version can only be used in print.

The red version is preferred for usage with the crest but the white and black versions can also be used depending on the background.

UM wordmark size

The minimum size of the wordmark for print and digital applications is 3mm, based on the height of the capital letter U. This small size makes the UM line wordmark the branding element to use on very small/narrow items such as lanyards and pens.

UM wordmark spacing

At minimum size, the mandatory clear space around wordmark is of 5mm. This increases in proportion to the size of the wordmark, as shown in the example on the right.

The UM ceremonial crest

The University of Malta ceremonial crest is a digital reproduction of the painting of the University's ceremonial crest created in 1923.

The crest is reproduced using PANTONE® 872C and PANTONE® 200C or their CMYK equivalent.

Two variations of the crest exist:
- an ornate crest is to be used when it appears larger than 30mm
- a simpler crest should be used when reproduced at a size smaller than 30mm.

Use of the UM ceremonial crest is reserved exclusively for the following:

- letterhead of the Office of the Rector
- marketing material for events organised by/for the Office of the Rector
- graduation ceremonies
- graduate certificates awarded during the graduation ceremonies
- Honoris Causa ceremonies
- Gateway building (GW) entrance window.

The ceremonial crest and UM line wordmark

The University ceremonial crest must always be accompanied by the UM line wordmark in the formats shown in the examples on the right.

The following are two exceptions to the above rule:

- letterhead for the Office of the Rector
- any material for which the Rector requests the ceremonial crest and UM line wordmark to be in a particular format.

The University ceremonial crest cannot be used on any material other than that listed on the previous page.

When using the ceremonial crest with the UM line wordmark the following guidelines should be adhered to:

- when using the ornate crest at a minimum size with the UM line wordmark, the size of the wordmark should be 8mm (based on the height of the letter U). Both are to be resized by the same percentage

- when using the simple crest at a minimum size with the UM line wordmark, the size of the wordmark should be 5mm (based on the height of the letter U). Both are to be resized by the same percentage

- the ceremonial crest can be placed top-left or centre-left aligned within a layout. Any other alignment is not permitted

- when the crest is placed at the top-left, the wordmark is to be placed either at the opposite corner, centre-right aligned with the centre of the crest, OR at the bottom-left corner, left-aligned like the crest

- when the crest is centre-left aligned, the wordmark should be placed at the bottom-left corner.

A note on designing with the ceremonial crest

As illustrated in the examples on this page, a detail of the outline of the ceremonial crest can be utilised for graduation ceremonies/Honoris Causa material. The detail should appear in PANTONE® 872C, or its CMYK equivalent.  It is used only when the UM wordmark is positioned at the bottom-left corner. The print material for graduations/Honoris Causa should have very similar design layouts, including the covers which need to be in two-colour Pantone where, if the event dates are not printed during the same run, CMYK black can be used for the dates. This ceremonial crest detail cannot be used for any other item apart from graduation/ Honoris Causa and Rectorate material.

Concept
and style

Design concept

Inspired by how the University provides an environment for many individuals to develop into something more, our design concept is based on three pillars:

1. Minimal: promote white space, emphasise clarity
2. Organic: flow in design and information hierarchy
3. Dynamic: flexible design options for different needs

The concept has Maltese cultural roots, originating from the idea of the rubble wall, which is a very common sight in Malta. It consists of irregular, organic shapes which the designer is not tied to use as is, but can mold into the layout in order to create flow and also consistency without the design appearing repetitive. Even if using the same shape as a starting point, the designer can build or extract designs which differ from one another yet clearly correlate with each other. This approach is completely different from the old design methodology, which mostly consisted of block upon block of colour or information.

We have chosen two fonts to go with our new brand design: Cera Pro® and Lato, which are both sans serifs based on smooth mostly circular strokes, complementing the new design concept story for the University of Malta.

Tone of voice and editorial style guide

The way we get our message across is key to our reputation. We need to delve deeper into how we communicate with our varied audiences. It is important to be consistent in our content to convey our identity effectively.

These guidelines are aimed at fine-tuning writing for marketing and editorial purposes, outlining the most common issues when writing for print media and for the web. It is imperative that when publishing any sort of communication to the media, a copy is first sent to the Marketing, Communications & Alumni Office. The team will ensure that the right tone is used and help you reach the desired audience using the correct language that reflects the values of our brand. The Marketing, Communications & Alumni Office can be reached via info@um.edu.mt.

Abbreviations and acronyms

Titles
When used in running text, academic titles should be used in full.
   e.g. Professor John Borg
When used in the context of a list or a directory, the preferred format is the abbreviated version.
   e.g. Prof. John Borg
Follow the rule: if an acronym ends with the last letter of the word do not use a full stop, if it does not, then use a full stop.
Mr, Ms, Fr, Sr and Dr should be used without a full stop.
Ing. and Prof. should be used with a full stop.

Course titles
Course titles should appear with the appropriate fullstops.
   e.g. B.Sc., B.Com. (Hons), M.D.

First instance of an acronym
The first time an acronym (such as NATO) or initialism (such as CLAS, RSSD) is used on any given page, it should always be spelt out in full, with the acronym/initialism appearing in brackets after it.
   e.g. All queries relating to funding should be directed to the Research Support Services Directory (RSSD).

Latin abbreviations
Latin abbreviations (such as i.e. or c.f.) should appear in plain text without a trailing comma.

Try to avoid
Try to avoid terms used within the University of Malta which may not be understood by the people outside the institution, especially by prospective international students.
   e.g. Use the term 'postgraduate certificate' not 'PgCert' (except in course titles)

Addresses

Addresses should appear vertically and not as part of a sentence or paragraph of text.

For departmental addresses, put the department name before the University:
Name of Department/Area/Faculty
University of Malta
Msida MSD 2080
Malta

Name of Entity
Room number
Building
University of Malta
Msida MSD 2080
Malta

Some important details:
* no full stops at the end of addresses
* no comma between the number and the street name
* the postcode should appear after the town on the same line
* no comma between town and postcode.

Accents

Use accents on foreign and Maltese words.
    e.g. Università, exposé

Ampersand (&)

In running text use the word 'and'.
Ampersands should be used for faculty/institute/centre and department names and for job titles.
    e.g. Malta, Italy and the United Kingdom
    Faculty of Media & Knowledge Sciences
    Content & Media Relations Officer

Apostrophes (')

Possession
The apostrophe always comes after the noun.
    e.g. The University's canteen is open
When something belongs to more than one person, then the apostrophe goes after the 's'. e.g. The graduates' certificates will be kept in departmental offices Exceptions are proper nouns such as Jesus, Moses or Greek names ending in 's'. e.g. Achilles' heel, Dickens' A Tale of Two Cities Plurals of nouns omit the 's' after the apostrophe.
    e.g. The lecturers' notes are available online

Brackets

Avoid brackets where possible. Use em-dashes (—) with spacing before and after, to indicate parentheses.

Bullets

Bulleted lists should be preceded by a colon not a dash.
Do not use:
* a capital letter at the start of each bullet except in the case of titles/headings
* a semicolon or full stop at the end of the bullet except the last one.

Capitals

For proper nouns, official titles and course titles use initial capitals when written in full.
    e.g. Professor Mark Pace
    Bachelor of Arts (Honours)
When you refer to such titles in running text or use a word that refers to an area of study in a generic sense, do not use an initial capital.

e.g. Applicants must study economics at Advanced Level
Use an initial capital when referring to a particular department.
   e.g. Department of Physics
Do not use an initial capital when referring generally to departments.
   e.g. there are 19 departments
When you refer to the University of Malta as 'the University', use an initial capital. When you refer to a university in general, use lower case.

Do not use initial capitals for prepositions (in, at, of, the, and, on)
in titles.

Use initial capitals sparingly. They are used in the following instances:
- for months and days of the week (e.g. March, April/Monday, Tuesday), but not for seasons of the year (spring, summer, autumn, winter)

- for the job titles of specific individuals (e.g. 'Professor of History') and for titles used in conjunction with a name (e.g. 'Professor Borg'), but not for more general titles (e.g. 'a professor in the Department of History', 'chairman', 'director'). Titles commonly used in business, such as 'finance director', do not take initial capitals

- for titles of UM courses (e.g. 'M.A. Economics') and study-units (e.g. 'ENG 1001 English Language Studies I')

- for the main title of a book, but not for subheadings. Subheadings should follow a colon and appear in lower case (e.g. Environmental Economics: an elementary introduction).

Capitalisation in headings
Headings and webpage titles should be written in sentence case. This excludes any creative applications by the MCAO designers for items requiring capitalisation for functional and/or aesthetic reasons.

Telephone numbers

Do not put the country code in brackets.
The correct format for all phone numbers is:
+356 2340 2340

Dates and times

Dates
Try to use the full form of the month where possible.
It greatly helps the readability of your text.
When you need to abbreviate a month, such as when it is used with a date, abbreviate to Jan., Feb., Mar., Apr., Jun., Jul., Aug., Sept., Oct., Nov. and Dec.

Preferred date format in all cases must be as follows:
   e.g. 10 October 2018 or 5 November 2018

Time
When writing in English, time is written in the twenty-four-hour format. When writing in Maltese use the 12-hour clock, followed by am or pm.
   e.g. 10:00

Numbers

Write zero to nine as words and 10 onwards in figures, unless a sentence begins with a number over 10.

Per cent

Use the symbol '%' when the number is written as a numeral. When the number is written out in full use 'per cent'.
   e.g. five per cent and 20%
Note that 'per cent' rather than '%' is used in running text.

Quotation marks

Use single quotation marks for consistency. If there are quotation marks within quotation marks, then differentiate.
    e.g. 'The word "ħalliel" is sometimes used in an affectionate way', says Professor Borg.

The term alumnus

alumnus – individual male alumna – individual female alumni – a group of males alumnae – a group of females alumni – a group composed of both men and women

Practical use of typography and editorial design for documents

- The two main fonts to be used on any material released by the University of Malta are Cera PRO© and Lato.

- The font Calibri can be used when the above two fonts are not available or when the document will require future editing by staff/other parties with no access to these two fonts.

- The text samples on the right represent how these fonts should be used when creating documents. The alignment of all text including titles, headers and sub-headers should be left-aligned. Underlining of text should be avoided: use bold and italics instead. Exceptions include the sender details on official letterheads and any third party logos which can be placed either at bottom-left or bottom-right corners.

- Headers must be in Cera PRO©, Bold, black at 60% tint.

- Sub-headers must be in Lato, Bold, black.

- Body or main text must be in Lato, Heavy, black.

- Contact details must be in Lato, Bold, black with the relevant Typicons icon in front.

- In cases where Cera PRO© and Lato are not available and Calibri has to be used, the headers should be in Bold between 16 and 18 point size and the sub-headers also in Bold between 13 and 15 point size. The main text should be in Calibri Regular between 8 and 11 point. All text should be in black. Contact icons should be converted into words.

- Whenever possible all documents should be passed through the Design section of the Marketing, Communications & Alumni Office for approval of the format and other design aspects.

- All marketing material such as brochures, flyers, leaflets etc. should be created by the Design section of the Marketing, Communications & Alumni Office to ensure consistency and full adherence to the UM brand.

- For more detailed guidelines regarding several marketing items such as brochures, flyers and posters, refer to Section 3 (p.49).

Photographic style

Photography is key to portraying the culture, diversity and vibrant campus life of the University of Malta. Malta and, to this end, the way in which a subject is photographed must reflect the spirit of the brand.

- All models should be given a consent form to sign prior to participating in a photoshoot. You can request soft copies of the consent forms by sending an email to info@um.edu.mt.

- During photoshoots conducted in specialised/hazardous environments such as laboratories and testing rooms, the photographer must ensure that all models wear the safety/recommended clothing and use the equipment correctly, under professional supervision if required.

- Photos should be composed of mainly a warm palette wherever possible, although in some environments such as scientific laboratories, it is understandable that the photo will have a colder colour composition.

- Make the most of natural light and try planning the photoshoots when good weather is expected: plenty of natural light, warm sunlight rays, light shadows and play of light give a lively warmth to the picture.

- Photos should look or be as natural as possible:
  - the staging should not look obvious on camera
  - the models should not look straight into the camera
  - poses should be relaxed and natural, not artificial and uncomfortable
  - the expressions need to look sincere and spontaneous
  - the photo editing should be minimal
  - wherever possible, a diverse group of models should participate in the photoshoot to represent: different nationalities, ages, racial ethnicities, religions, dis/abilities, weight, height and generic outward appearance.

  - sunglasses (not glasses) are allowed if the model is alone, if all models have sunglasses, or if the models are not speaking or interacting with each other. The option of not wearing sunglasses is preferred.
  - heavy or very shiny jewellery is not allowed during photoshoots. Tattoos (unless they have negative connotations) and piercings are welcome.
  - clothing should be unbranded where possible (or the photo taken in a way that the brand can be easily edited out of the image). No harsh/violent/insulting/racial language or any kind of imagery with negative connotations on clothing is permitted during photoshoots.

- Photos are to be taken in very high resolution (300dpi) and in a large format (4000px height [portrait] or width [landscape] minimum) in order to be suitable for large-scale printing such as pull-ups and billboards.

- Text can be added to the photos and must be in Lato or Cera Pro®. Any text should appear on the left-hand side of the photograph. Photographers should ideally be informed of this in advance so as to plan the photographs accordingly. If this is not possible and the photo does not have a very light/dark area to the left, text can be added by:
  - applying a shape from the list inspired by the rubble walls (refer to p. 30) at an opacity not greater than 70% in one of the brand colours (as displayed on p. 38) and applying the text, left-aligned in black (K100) or in one of the colours of the brand belonging to the dark palette, depending on what best suits the colour composition of the image. OR
  - inserting a light flare to enhance the image (refer to p. 43) and applying the text, left-aligned in black (K100_ or in one of the colours of the brand belonging to the dark palette, depending on what best suits the colour composition of the image.

Composition and lighting

- Ideally each scene should be photographed both horizontally and vertically in order to cater for different possible uses. An equally good number of both horizontal and vertical photos should be available by the end of each photoshoot.

- Any clutter or rubbish should be removed and the area should be clean. Check if the surrounding objects/environment are in a good, adequate state (no peeling paint, broken chairs, paper/dirt on walls etc.).

- Green areas, scenery backdrop and minimal environments are preferred over buildings and busy areas. Keep monuments and strange structures out of the photography as much as possible. Guide the attention through appropriate positioning of the models in the current environment.

- The subject need not be in the middle of the image; you can stick to the rule of thirds. However we believe correct representation comes in different forms. (See photographic examples below).

- The UM brand is evolving into a much more fluid, organic and youthful entity, and this allows freedom in using different angles when taking a photograph – the more unusual and expressive, the more interesting the photo. Generic photography rules still apply and angles should be appropriate, also taking the kind of clothing and the models' pose into consideration. Some examples below show the kind of photos that resonate with our brand.

- The subject can be fully integrated in the photo, partly or even omitted from the photo, especially in cases where the image needs to represent a taught subject, a skillset, material/tools being used or the surrounding environment, or even other subjects in the room, rather than the subject closest to the lens. A close-up photo of the model to capture that split-of-a-second emotion or a macro of an object are also viable, interesting options, as long as they are taken professionally.

- When focusing on a subject the background subjects need to be blurred out according to distance.

- Emphasis on a particular subject can be created with a play of light. As long as the photo has balance in lighting and is not too dark or blinding it is correct. Natural light is always preferred to artificial light, however it also depends on the weather and whether the photo is taken inside or outside.

- Creating contrasts in colours through lighting or just choosing an interesting angle for contrast between light and shadow are also viable options. Lighting in photographs should not be harsh, high-key or unbalanced.

Photo editing

- Any photo taken for promotional use and not used for live posting requires the use of the word mark as watermark. The watermark should be added left-aligned at the top- or bottom-left corner in white or black (K 100) at a minimum of 30% opacity and a maximum of 70% opacity in order to ensure legibility while not attracting attention away from the photo.

- Keep editing to a minimum. The efforts taken to keep photos as natural as possible – especially when it comes to lighting – are easily erased through too much editing. Put a lot of thought into capturing the subject, so editing will always be a minor issue and fidelity to the original is maintained as much as possible.

- Remove any kind of visible branding on clothing, bags and any other item.

- A. Photo filter: always needs to be applied:
  Image > Adjustments > Photo Filter... >
  Warming Filter (85) > Set at 25%

- B. Light flare: optional: Sometimes a light flare adds character to a photo or that missing spark. It can also serve as a light-enough area if text needs to be inserted. There are three different light flares available. To insert:

  1. Open the photo you need to edit on PS

  2. Choose the light flare you deem most appropriate

  3. Place light flare on photo.
     Ctrl/Command – T to Transform Light Flare

  4. Resize, rotate and position as necessary

  5. Change the light flare layer to Screen

  6. You're done!

- C. Colour-correction: keep in mind the warm palette when colour-correcting your photos. Apply colour-correction after the Warming filter in A.

- Other colour: sepia or black and white are two other accepted formats of photography.

Macros, angles and close-ups

Lighting techniques, light flares and photo colour

To be avoided

- The models should not be posing in a fake, acted-out manner; the photos need to be as natural as possible

- Photos cannot be captured with models looking or smiling at the camera

- The models should be engaged in conversation or actively doing something, not just staring around aimlessly

- Photos which are not in line with the guidelines stipulated on the previous pages should not be chosen

- Any photo or image which has the traits of the photos below cannot be used for UM purposes

How to obtain high resolution imagery and take photos and videos of the University of Malta

Access, permissions and bookings for both photos and videos can be obtained by sending an email to info@um.edu.mt.

Any photos or videos which were not taken by the staff of the Marketing, Communications & Alumni Office must follow these brand guidelines and also need to be approved by the Office prior to use and circulation. The University has access to www.shutterstock.com which offers a very wide range of photos catering for all kinds of subject matter specifically limited for the use of UM staff for UM purposes, not personal use. Copy the link of the image that you prefer and send it together with a request for download to info@um.edu.mt.

Videographic style

Video projects being produced for the purposes of promoting the University of Malta (UM), must observe to the UM brand. The following guidelines are to be consulted before production begins, and should be adhered to throughout the entire production process.

The Marketing, Communications and Alumni Office provides filming and editing services for the production of short marketing videos on behalf of the University of Malta. Examples include:

- The promotion of research projects
- The promotion of courses
- Generic promotional videos for a faculty/ institute/centre/school
- Events coverage

Video project requests are to be made via the official UM Marketing Materials Request Form accessed through:
um.edu.mt/marketingmaterialrequests

The entire process of producing a video is divided into four stages:

- planning and pre-production
- production
- post-production
- approval and distribution

Planning & pre-production

- The Marketing, Communications and Alumni Office can provide assistance and support in the production of these videos. Whether filming and editing is undertaken by this Office or outsourced, an initial meeting must be set up to discuss the best way forward. This will also allow the interested party to make sure that the visual style of the finished product is in line with the University's brand guidelines

- The main aim of video-based promotional material is primarily to serve as a teaser, whereby the content is presented in a dynamic and engaging way without any excess information
- Most videos are uploaded online via the University of Malta YouTube channel and social media platforms
- To this effect, it is important to note that attractive visuals, conciseness and a clear message are key to a successful video
- It is also imperative that all involved parties (such as, in the case of a collaboration between Faculties or different departments) agree beforehand about the content of the video and the primary message behind it
- The focus of particular promotional videos should centre on human aspects, and experiences. People's thoughts and perspectives supersede all other technical content or details.

Production

- All video content must be recorded in High Definition (Full HD)/1080p or higher (such as 2K or 4K), and at a frame rate of 24 or 25fps. (Footage recorded at 50 or 60fps is to be used only in special circumstances)
- When recording subjects for interviews, the rule of thirds should apply. Correctly centering subjects in the middle of the frame is also acceptable
- Allow enough headroom (the space between the top part of the frame and the person's head)

- Good composition will give the video a more professional look and will enhance the overall experience of the viewer
- Other practical rules, such as no distracting backgrounds and steady shots, apply.
- When filming outdoors, make sure there are no harsh shadows or bright reflections on the subject's face or any other areas within the frame
- Avoid filming in low light conditions, especially when indoors.
- If filming takes place indoors, make use of natural light by recording beside a window, or utilise other light sources to improve the picture quality
- Choose your angles wisely. Avoid filming your subjects against bright light sources — move the camera or the subjects accordingly if necessary
- Sound is an essential part of video production. Audio quality is sometimes more important than the visuals themselves, and the proper steps must be taken to ensure that any interviews or voice-over clips are recorded with clarity.
- Avoid noisy environments or large indoor spaces with a strong echo.
- Videos should be entirely monolingual (English or Maltese) whenever possible.
- When marketing for international students English is the preferred choice.
- Except in special circumstances (such as a talk or non-promotional video), the total duration of each feature should not exceed two minutes.
- Promotional videos should contain a mixture of interviews (such as testimonials) and visual material (referred to as cutaways) that clearly demonstrate the subject/s being discussed

- For videos promoting a department, course, etc., at least 1 student (past or current) should be included to help boost the experiential aspect

- A maximum of three speakers is considered the most convenient number of interviews to be featured in a video

- Participants must speak clearly and preferably not be camera-shy.

- Smartphones are a good tool for capturing clips. A smartphone must be held in the horizontal position when recording video clips. Footage should not be recorded with a vertically-held smartphone.

- Appropriate dress code should be adhered to. If filming is taking place in laboratories or other specialized venues, ensure that the required clothing and/or safety equipment is worn

- Consent formswill be given to staff and students appearing in the video. These forms need to be filled and signed by all individuals (both background and main subjects).

Post-production

- Careful preparation during the planning and production stages will ensure a smoother editing process

- Story is at the heart of any good production, and is essential in making sure that the final product is well-received by the target audience

- The YouTube Audio Library provides a range of free music and sound effects

- Make sure that music tracks or other sound effects are copyright-free, or that appropriate credit is given where due

- Raw footage filmed by the Marketing, Communications and Alumni Office can be handed over to the relevant entity to oversee the editing stage, as long as the final video follows the University's brand guidelines

- Appropriate URL links and contact information must be provided towards the end of the video

- All University-related videos must conclude with the correct UM logo on a plain white background.

Approval & distribution

- All videos, whether produced in-house or outsourced, need to be passed on to the Marketing, Communications & Alumni Relations Office for approval before publication

- Videos promoting courses will also need to be passed on to the Registrar for approval

- Once uploaded online, the video can be shared by utilising the URL link or embedded on a page by using the embed code provided by YouTube or other social media platforms

- No further changes can be made to the video once it has been approved and uploaded.

Correct and incorrect examples of video composition

Smartphones can be used to take video but must be held horizontally

In order to think creatively, we must reconsider with a fresh mindset what is normally taken for granted.

Corporate email

To guarantee uniformity in our communication, personal signatures on all um.edu.mt email accounts should conform to a standard template. The signature is meant to briefly give information about an employee's role at the University.

The default font for Google Accounts, Arial (Sans Serif) should be used in email communication.

Powerpoint presentation template

Powerpoint presentations are widely used for events, classrooms and conferences alike. This highlights the importance of having a template where the brand is consistently portrayed in a professional manner.

All presentations in the name of the University must be created using the official UM template. The instructions on the template must be followed to ensure consistency.

The fonts cannot be changed, and busy or glaring backgrounds, underlining, highlighting, effects or slide transitions are not permitted.

Photographs set as backgrounds or used more generally in presentations must be clear and not pixellated and must follow the photography guidelines on pp. 40–44.

Infographics, diagrams and tables can be used in the slides designed for such imagery provided they are high resolution and professional.

If in doubt, forward your presentation to info@um.edu.mt to get approval or guidance from the Marketing, Communications & Alumni Office.

The details to the right of the logo should be left-aligned, in Cera PRO font and should consist of the address, telephone number/s, email and link. They should follow the same format as the letterheads (please refer to p. 53). The format of the notepads cannot be changed or printed in any other manner.

Social media marketing

Social media posts and adverts

Social media posts should all have a similar layout and the same image and chosen colour should be used throughout any marketing campaign. Adverts must only consist of an image and the possibility of a title or header within the image, while the rest of the information should be accessible through the link. UM social media channels include Facebook, Twitter, Instagram and the official UM YouTube channel. Any social media material must follow these guidelines prior to circulation.

Publishing adverts on newspapers

The University publishes adverts in the local newspapers both in print and online. There is a choice of 5, 4, 3 and 2-column adverts which can be in black and white or in colour, following the UM official colour palette. Such adverts are solely produced by the Marketing, Communications & Alumni Office and media companies cannot be contacted without the permission of the Office. All adverts must be approved by the Office prior to publication.

Create a marketing campaign consistent with the UM brand

All the print and online marketing campaign material that you require, including posters, social media posts and adverts, newspaper adverts, brochures, flyers, invitations and programmes, should follow the UM brand guidelines and should be designed and approved by the Marketing, Communications & Alumni Office. All requests to create marketing material can be submitted through: um.edu.mt/marketingmaterialrequests

Exterior signage

The University's exterior signage follows one particular style and the same use of materials to ensure consistency across campus.
The signs are designed in two colours: 80% black (K) and PANTONE 200C. The logo does not feature on the signs as they are already located on campus. The UM wordmark on wall signs is featured at the bottom. The only exceptions to these design details include the following:

- the main entrance sign of the University of Malta Junior College
- the main entrance sign of the Gozo Campus
- the Argotti Resource Centre sign
- the Cottonera Resource Centre sign.

All signage is produced and approved by the Marketing, Communications & Alumni Office. Any alternative signage will not be permitted and will be removed immediately.
Ongoing signage revamp

Currently a wayfinding project covering the University Msida campus is ongoing; kindly contact info@um.edu.mt to get the signage of your Faculty, Institute, Centre or School designed or if your office wall plaque needs to be updated.
